

MIKRASIA

“Xenophilos” Smyrna town was at that time the capital of Asia Minor (Mikrasia) and an attractant area for Greeks, British, French, Italians, Dutch, Turks, Armenians and Jews, with commerce flourishing and products flowing from every corner of the earth.

The perception for good food and prosperity in Smyrna follows literally the living conditions of a thriving metropolis, which itself is open to its migrant populations, its influences from the East and West, its cultural admixtures and makes the best use of it.

Mikrasia menu, with influences and references to the multicultural cuisine of that time, mixed with present techniques adapted in today’s needs for delicious but simultaneously light fine dining while maintaining many of the original features and ingredients of authentic recipes.
